Phil likes animals.
Every summer, he and his parents
visit the city zoo.
Phil can never get enough
of seeing things at that zoo.

First, they go in the petting zoo.
Phil likes petting the horses.
He feeds them hay.
A graph posted on the gate shows how fast horses grow.

His mom gives him a bag.
It is stuffed with food
to feed the eager goats.
Those goats eat from Phil's bag.
His dad takes photos.

Phil and his parents pet a soft rabbit on the way out.
Next Phil visits wild animals.
He sees signs with the phrase
"No food!"

Hippos play in mud.
They look happy
by that cool stream.
Three foxes dart under bushes.
They are playing.

In the fish house,
Phil sees sea stars, puffer fish,
sea horses, and sharks.
Phil likes to see the sharks getting fed.

Before the zoo closes, Phil and his mom and dad see a dolphin show. The zoo staff taught dolphins to do fun tricks.

Splash! Everybody laughs.
